

11-20-1907

Bulloch Times

Notes

Condition varies. Some pages missing or in poor condition.

Originals provided for filming by the publisher.

Gift of Statesboro Herald and the Bulloch County Historical Society.

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/bulloch-news-issues>

Recommended Citation

"Bulloch Times" (1907). Bulloch County Newspapers (Single Issues). 291.
<https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/bulloch-news-issues/291>

This newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Bulloch County Historical Newspapers at Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. It has been accepted for inclusion in Bulloch County Newspapers (Single Issues) by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@georgiasouthern.edu.

DUELING IN THE NAVY

The Tragic Affair That Put an End to the Practice.

A MIDSHIPMAN'S CHALLENGE

It Was Accepted by the Lawyer, and the Battle Was Fought in Delaware. The Fate of the Two Principals in the Unfortunate Meeting.

That settlement of quarrels by appeal to the sword of honor was no longer to be the favorite law of the American navy was determined by a duel in which William Miller, Jr., a Philadelphia lawyer, was slain in a personal affair fought along the northern shore of Delaware. The man who fired the fatal shot was Midshipman Charles G. Hunter, and the encounter took place along Naamans creek on the afternoon of Sunday, March 21, 1903.

Slightly enough, neither Miller, who lost his life, nor Hunter, who killed him, was principal in the original quarrel that led to the meeting on the bank of the little creek in Delaware. Neither had seen the other until a few hours before the challenge was sent and accepted.

Simply a mishap in a game of billiards played at Third and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, led to the tragedy that plunged two bones into sorrow and undid the life of the man whose pistol shot calmly and surely into a human blood.

Henry Wharton Griffith and R. D. D. Drake, prominent society men of Philadelphia, played the game of billiards, and Griffith made the mistake which called for a hunt from Drake who was immediately struck in the face with a cue by Griffith. A challenge to a duel was sent by Drake, but Griffith declined that the challenge was beneath his notice and that he would not demean himself socially by consenting to meet him.

Then followed a long and noisy warfare in which each party of the other as a reward. A challenge was sent by the United States navy, called to a halt by an effort to settle the dispute, and it was then that Miller, the lawyer, and Hunter, the midshipman, became involved in the quarrel. In the heat of the discussion Hunter accused Miller of publishing a confidential letter, and a challenge was at once sent by the midshipman and received by the attorney.

It was decided that the duel should be fought early on Sunday morning of March 21, but it was nearly 10 o'clock before carriages containing the principals, seconds and surgeons left a house that stood on Chestnut street above Sixth.

The presence of the company excited some suspicion at Chester, where the party stopped for lunch, and they hurried down the post road, tied their horses close to the highway and proceeded 200 yards behind a clump of trees that would shield them from observation.

As the sun was setting two pistol shots rang out simultaneously as one of the seconds counted "One, two, three—fire." Hunter slipped his gun, and a ball from his opponent's pistol struck at his feet, but Miller cried out that he was shot, placed one hand on his breast and fell with a bullet lying close to his heart. In a few minutes he died, while pale and anxious faces watched the convulsive breathing of the dying man.

"Confidence," said Hunter, "I had no enemy against this man. I never heard of him until two days ago. Let those whose quarrel embroiled him be responsible for his death."

After a hurried consultation it was decided that the midshipman should leave the state at once, and he was driven rapidly to New Castle, Del., where he landed a boat for New York and rejoined the navy. In order to hide the tragedy it was decided to wait until dark and take Miller to Philadelphia in a carriage.

Seating the dead man between them, two seconds held him in an upright position on the long journey to Philadelphia. News of the duel had reached Chester, and a crowd of men stood at Third street bridge to intercept the carriages. The first buggy contained the surgeon, and, as his explanation was satisfactory, he was permitted to proceed. The dead man in the second carriage was driven through the crowd without the ruse being detected, and at midnight the body was placed in a house in Walnut street, where vigil was kept by the seconds, who drank heavily to support them in the terrible strain under which they had been placed.

Miller's father said that he held no malice against Hunter, but that the midshipman, who was suspended for a year for publishing a confidential letter, was haunted by the specter of the dead man lying on the bank of Naamans creek, slain by his hand, and died a prematurely old man after a lonely life, shut out from all hope of preferment in the navy. He was buried by the newspaper men of New York, who erected a tombstone over his grave—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mentally, "You have been abroad, haven't you, Mr. Shipley?" "No, Miss Sharp. What made you think I had been abroad?" "Why, I heard papa say you were 'way off'—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Candor, "Mabel (aged six)—Ain't you afraid of our big dog? The Parson (very thin)—No, my dear. He would not make much of a meal off me. Mabel—Oh, but he likes bones best.—Chicago News.

THE DREAD OF RABIES.

Out of All Proportion to the Frequency of the Disease.

Men are more terrified by a dog who is supposed to be mad, and there are a number of instances in which innocent persons have been killed on the part of the human race by a mad dog.

Although nearly all warm blooded animals are susceptible to rabies, it is not commonly seen in dogs. There are two forms of the "disease," the "furious" and the "dumb." In the furious type after a period of melancholy or depression the animal becomes restless and irritable, with a tendency to run away and snap at everything in sight, finally becoming uncontrolled and sullen and dying of paralysis and exhaustion. In dumb rabies the stage of irritability is absent. The dog prowls about in a listless way, with his head down and jaws dropped. At the same time there is difficulty in swallowing.

It is often impossible to tell from a single observation whether it is rabies or not. But if instead of killing the animal as quickly as possible, as it is usually done, the owner captures it and keeps it for a few days under lock and key, the question can be settled. A mad dog always dies in from four to six days, so that if the animal recovers the bitten person may be sure that they are not going to develop hydrophobia.

In any suspicious case the wound should immediately be washed with hot water and kept moist. If it already has become infected with rabies, it should be treated with antiseptics and a hot iron or with strong nitric acid, not with caustic lime as is sometimes done. In the case of the dog, the wound should be kept open and the animal should be kept under observation, or if already killed the head and neck should be placed in ice and preserved for medical examination.

It is not certain that the animal was rabid, but the patient should not despair, for it is estimated that only 15 per cent of those bitten by rabid animals actually develop the disease, and if the patient receives immediate treatment, recovery is almost certain.

The popular dread of rabies is out of proportion to the frequency of the disease, and the length to which it may go is shown by the instances in which people have developed and even died of this hydrophobia, a nervous condition due to fright rather than to some extent the real malady.

Yonah's Companion.

BROILING.

If the fire should be too hot, sprinkle salt over it.

Birds and other things which need to be halved should be broiled inside first.

Always grease the grill and have it hot before the meat is placed on it.

Never put your fork in the lean part of meat on the grill, as it allows the fat to escape.

Fish should be broiled and sprinkled with flour, which will prevent the skin from adhering to the grill.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

Cover the grill with a tin pan or a baking pan. The sooner the meat is covered the better it will be.

The pan holds the heat and often prevents a stray line of smoke from touching the meat—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remember that a hot, clear fire is necessary for broiling all kinds of food. They should be turned often to be cooked evenly without being burned.

LAWYERS IN ENGLAND.

The Difference Between the Barrister and the Solicitor.

The barrister in England is the very heart of the law. He is who makes the laws, who goes into parliament, who sits on the bench, who considers himself seven or eight degrees higher up in the social scale than any other person or whole class mortal, and with all this he has absolutely no responsibility toward his clients. That ancient, much abused title called "counsel" in this country has been created for the last two separate and distinct limbs, which may be compared in a measure to the legs of the tree. One is the draught and the other the quill. The draught is the solicitor, who sits in an office working up a case, consulting clients, drawing bills, controlling estate transactions and controlling the incomes of people who are fortunate enough to be saddled under the trust deeds. The solicitor, who has his own tradition to glory out, does not ever get to himself any work whatever. Except in police and county court cases, he is persona non grata, or, in the words of the judges, "he is not seen." If he has a case on hand, he is obliged to take it to a barrister, who, though he may never have heard of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most prodigious fee, quite big enough to enable him to appear nicely mounted in the row every morning. If he spends the case, there is no chance for redress, because the barrister is merely a gentleman, man fiction policy assumes to be a friend in need. All the sins of failure fall upon the poor solicitor. There are no barristers in prison, but there are a good many of the matter in dispute before, does his wig and gown, proceeds into court and argues till all is black and blue, as if he knew all about it, for which he draws a most Mythological Tales of an American Indian Tribe...

An acre of wheat or potatoes in England is worth from $30 to $100, and an acre of corn in the United States can be worth anything from $250 to $2000 and more.—Chicago Tribune.

Dividing the Responsibility.
Early in Baron Huddellsten's career at the bar he shared rooms with another barrister. Bodkin went one evening to take tea with the other barrister, and he particularly noticed the dirty, slovenly appearance of the clerk who waited upon them.

There is nothing in the world more certain than advertising is not properly done. You can make as much of it as you like, but it will be if you do not go about it with full understanding of its details and attendant risks. Leave the management of a locomotive, and sooner or later there is going to be a smash. Whenever advertising doesn't make a loose screw or a loose nut, some place beneath the surface does not look beneath the surface. Curran & Mitchell.

"Every gain in the way of strength and cheapness is bought at the price of the individuality of the worker." "The result is that the modern worker is man is most inflammable material, social unrest. The wonder is not that we have produced such results, but that those results have not been infinitely worse."

APPLES.

Apples Generally Highest Prices Summer, but Some Costliest in Winter.

"It might seem improbable but nevertheless true," said a dealer

De districtally every district had one time or another reported the planting of some trees. But inquiry recently addressed to the school commission revealed the fact that there were more than 2,000 districts in the S with absolutely no trees or shrubs on their school grounds and many of which had only a few straggling trees.

Further than that, says Arbor, a very small per cent. of the whole number of districts give any real attention to the care of their grounds. Apparently there is more need for the care of trees and shrubs than there is for actual planting.

just been completed at the Wisconsin Station to decide on the relative value of shelled corn and corn meal for fattening pigs. It was found that the corn meal was something better, not always enough better to warrant fattening food to pay for cost of grinding. The higher the price of grain, the greater the saving through grinding, since cost of grinding becomes smaller relatively as the price of grain advances. Thus, with corn at twelve and a half cents a bushel, the saving from grinding was only 1-1/2 cents; but the corn at seventy-five cents a bushel the saving from grinding was 4-1/2

A Florida Shark Story.

A tarpon pursued by a shark near Garden Key in one of its tremendous leaps fell across a skiff containing two fishermen who were so busily engaged with a net that they did not notice its approach. The skiff broke in two, the fishermen became outboarded, and the shark, which took hold of the net and the men, took a huge bite out of the side of one of them, Belton Larkin, cutting his body nearly in two. It is thought the shark mistook Larkin's body for the tarpon. It was in pursuit of, for sharks those waters have never been known to attack a man.—Punta Gorda Herald.

has been advising sick w-
years, and before that sh-lman is advising. Thus women back to health.

TRY THIS EASILY

Tobacco Habit
Menthol Habit
Liquor Habit

Still a Double Chloride of Gold Tablet case of Morphine, Liquor or Tobacco Habit in 30 days. Cost is given in terms of the knowledge of the patient. Particulars to be sent by all druggists or to THE CHIRCO CHEMICAL CO.
P.O. BOX 523 W. TOLEDO
OHIO

is Billings' Eye with weak
3744, etc

Thompson's Eye

men free of charge for more than two years. She also has a son, 10, who she freed his mother-in-law, Lydia E. B. Smith, who is especially well qualified to guide him. "I don't want to wait until he is 21 today, don't wait until too late."

Some men seem to think that a woman profitable to be a house more a bookkeeper.

When a crowd of women has absolutely nothing to talk about, they begin to say anything about everything.

It takes a good sailor to sail the sea of trouble.

A movement, it seems, is being to erect a shrine dedicated to the Cataract," in one of the churches at Niagara Falls.

Girls with dimples do not make the best laughter,

You

Social

made
"Our
the ways

Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N

There is no liar on earth e the man who pretends that h mind being how-legged or red

There is a lot of quiet egotist nected with being satisfied.

Look P

of those ugly, grizzly, gray hairs.

GOOD BOARD CHEAP.
Some Price Relationship.

Harris Business

The Mooney

Send For Handsome Catalogue

mature

A CREOLE "HAW" RESTORER, FR

University, JACKSON, MISS.
School FOR BOYS
 A MURFREESBORO, TENN.
 y Old.
 $1.00, retail.

[The page contains extremely faint, illegible text.]

COL. ESTILL'S WILL

Makes Liberal Provisions for His Family.

ORDERS THE MORNING NEWS SOLD

The Paper is Worth $300,000 and Remainder of the Estate an Equal Amount.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 15.—The will of Col. J. H. Estill, owner of the Savannah Morning News, who died on Saturday night, will be filed in solemn form on December 2nd. It will be filed before the ordinary of Chatham county. It is not now believed that there will be any contest over the will. Colonel Estill's heirs were all provided for in the will, although some of the bequests were not very liberal.

While Colonel Estill ordered the Savannah Morning News sold in ninety days of his death it is not believed this will be done, because of the stringency in the money market. It is expected that those who have the matter in charge will permit the paper to go unsold for a year at least. There is already much speculation as to who will get the paper when it is finally sold. It is probable that a local syndicate will be organized at the proper time.

Colonel Estill requested that he be buried in Bonaventure cemetery and that the remains of his wives, children and father be removed from Laurel Grove cemetery and re-interred in Bonaventure in his lot. To Evergreen cemetery he bequeathed three hundred dollars for the purpose of perpetually keeping the family lot in repairs.

To the Union Society he bequeathed five thousand dollars. To his wife, Mrs. Maud Hill Estill, he bequeathed his real estate at the Isle of Hope and the improvements thereon, a tract of marsh land near Skidaway, three lots on Thirty-sixth street, the island of Burnt Pot, in Chatham county, all personal property of every kind and description, except stocks and bonds and choses in action and the interest in the Morning News.

To A. D. Estill and Iphigene Estill, children of his deceased brother, A. D. Estill, he bequeathed five hundred dollars each.

To Mr. Frank Bell he bequeathed one-seventh interest in the proceeds of the sale of the Morning News.

To Holbrook T. Estill he bequeathed one thousand dollars, but in a codicil which was made on the first of October, this was changed and he left one-half of the income of one-sixth of the residue.

To James S. Estill he left one thousand dollars, the remaining one-sixth being held in trust by the Citizens and Southern Bank for the children of James S. Estill.

To his wife, Mrs. Maud Hill Estill, he bequeathed, in addition to all his personal property and real estate except that portion enumerated above, one-sixth of his property. The life insurance for forty thousand dollars will go to his wife.

To John H. Estill, Jr., he left one-sixth of his estate.

To Walter Estill he left one-sixth of his estate, to be held in trust by the Citizens and Southern Bank.

To Marion W. Estill he bequeathed one-sixth of his property, to be held in trust by the same financial concern.

Mrs. Maud Hill Estill is named as the executrix and Mr. Thomas P. Ravenel as the executor of the estate. The will was made on the twenty-eighth of August last year, and was witnessed by Messrs. A. A. Aveline, John C. Southwell and W. S. Pottinger. The codicil was made on the first of October this year.

Groom 95, Bride 90 Years of Age.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 12.—Henry C. Wilder, aged 95 years, and Esther Crawford, 90 years old, were married last night. They have known each other only two weeks. Miss Crawford came from her home in the west to visit a niece. It was a case of love at first sight, it is said.

YOUR OWN BODY.

Think deliberately of the house you live in—your body. Make up your mind not to abuse it. Eat nothing that will hurt it; wear nothing that distorts or pains it. Do not overload it with vicarious or drink or work. Give yourself regular and abundant sleep. Keep your body warmly clad. At the first signs of danger from any of the thousand enemies that surround you, defend yourself. Do not take cold; guard yourself against it. If you feel the first symptoms, give yourself a hot treatment. Get into a hot glow of heat by exercise. This is the only body you will ever have in this world. A large share of pleasure and pain of life will come through the use of your body. It is the only body that should govern it, the pains and penalties that will surely follow a violation of every law of life or health.

Torpedo Boats.

Torpedo boats and torpedo destroyers are this skinned, unarmored craft. Often the steel hull is only about half an inch thick, and they travel as fast as many railway trains, some thirty or thirty-five miles an hour. They discharge their deadly bolt and run. A dark, stormy night in their charge. Then, without a light showing, they dash in and launch their torpedo, expecting, if they are, the hall of light that is sure to follow them. —Frank E. Channon in St. Nicholas.

Force of Habit.

Realizing that he should pay her a compliment, the chivalrous deliverer of tales before the beautiful woman. At last he says to her: "Just make a little tab for me, and next time I'm down your way I'll tell you how well you are looking." But the look on her countenance was enough to make him realize that compliments must be paid on face value and that beauty keeps no books. —St. Louis Republic.

Youthful Financialer.

This really happened in New York the other day: "Eldred, the parent-Molly, I find you have been buying three pairs of gloves without my permission. Why did you do so? Miss Molly aged twelve—Why, daddy, I was obliged to have some gloves; I hadn't a pair to wear." Disappointed Parent—It was wrong of you to buy the gloves without the permission either of your mother or myself. Miss Molly never mind, daddy, dear; they won't cost anything. I had them changed.—New York Post.

How Inconsiderate!

"Young Douglas did a very thoughtful thing." "What was that?" "He wrote a poem in honor of a certain young person who had just completed her twenty-first birthday and published it in the college paper." "Wasn't it a good poem?" "Very good." "What's the criticism then?" "Why, everybody who wants to find out can look back any time and discover how old the young woman is." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Not Even the Clock.

Two ladies were talking shown through the State Hospital for the insane. As they entered a ward one turned to the other and said, "I wonder if that clock is right?" As they started and overheard her and instantly replied: "Great Scott, no! It wouldn't be here if it was!" —Lynchburg.

The Difference.

"Pa, what's the difference between the meaning of prepared and ready?" "Well, there's many a person who may be prepared to die, but I never saw one who was ready." —Chicago Record-Herald.

Only Slight Mistake.

Mrs. Lombard is a stout and loyal friend, and she means withal to avoid exaggeration. "It's perfectly wonderful to see the way Cousin Henry counts bills at the bank," she said to a patient friend. "Why, I think there are so lucky to have him! He'll take a great pile of five and ten and twenty dollar bills and make his fingers fly just like lightning and never make a mistake!"

"Never" said the friend, who knew Mrs. Lombard's weakness and could not resist the question.

"Why—no—at least—why, perhaps he might get 5 or 10 cents out of the way, but not any more, ever." And Mrs. Lombard spoke with the air of one who has taken a stand and refuses all chances to retreat.—Youth's Companion.

Diva's Confidence.

Disraeli wrote a letter to his sister in 1873 in which he said: "Heard Macaulay's best speech, 'Shiel and Charles Grant.' Macaulay admirable, but, between ourselves, I could doo 'em all. This outburst (sic), I was never more confident of anything than that I could carry everything before me in that house. The result will come."

The Poor Girl.

"The woman I marry," he said, "must be glad to take me with all my faults."

Logical.

Little Dot—Oh, mamma, there's a star, "Poppy For Sale." What you buy me one? Mamma—Wait till you are a little older, dear. Little Dot—But they'll all be dogs then.—London Answers.

If doctors fail thee, be they thy doctors—rest, cheerfulness and moderate diet.—Latin Proverb.

A MADDENING PRANK.

The Quaker John Thel Eugene Field played on a Printer. When Eugene Field was city editor of the Kansas City Times he found great amusement in annoying one of the characters employed on the paper. Ferguson was one of the "makeups" on the paper, and in Wyandotte, where he resided, just over the line from Kansas City, he was the leader of a local temperance society. For over a year Field, on coming down to the paper to go to work, would write a personal concerning Ferguson. Generally it ran like this: "Mr. John Ferguson, the well known 'makeup' of the Times composing room, appeared for work yesterday evening in his usual beastly state of intoxication." This entertaining bit Field would send down in a bundle of copy, and the others of the composing room would set it up and say nothing.

Poor Ferguson knew that this awful personal was in their midst and every night would go carefully over every letter for the purpose of locating and killing it. It gave him vast trouble. Every now and then Field would not write his personal about Ferguson, and then the bewildered Ferguson was aware of this error. As long as he could not find it it might still be there. It almost drove the poor man off the paper. Now and then it escaped his eagle eye and was printed. On such occasions Ferguson's troubles were beyond the power of even a Christian spirit to bear.

Old Medicine.

The following are among some of the fantastic cures presented by the medical authorities of early times, as given by Dr. Hugo Magnus in his book, "Excursions in Medicine." Remedy Against Belladonna: "Take the heart from the living hen and wear it as an amulet at the left thigh." —Alexander of Tralles. Remedy Against Epilepsy (dribbled by the Physician, Moschion, Diorthobios, Alexander of Tralles, Book I, Chapter XV, page 57b). The forehead of an ass tied to the skin of the patient and worn.

"Gather iris, peonies and nightshade when the moon is in the waning phase and wear as an amulet." Advised by the magician Osthones, Alexander of Tralles, Book I, Chapter XV, page 59b.

The Australian Natives.

An English author writes of the Australian natives: "Between tribe and tribe war for purposes of territorial acquisition is unknown. They may fight about women or in the blood feud, for, as nobody is supposed to die a natural death, every death is thought to be caused by hostile magic. The victors are not more resolutely warring, but merely to draw first blood, as a rule, and, as there are no conquests, there are no slaves and very few captives. There are no hereditary chiefs, though among some socially advanced tribes a kind of magistracy or 'moderation' of local groups in the tribal general assembly is hereditary in the male line."

A Good Word For Tobacco.

A solution that was extremely fat was reduced to an ordinary size by chewing tobacco, which also does good in an Asthma. This of great use in Canada, where there is many times the quantity of tobacco and the like. —Complete Herald, 1914.

Understood of Slippers.

Slippers play an important part in the life of almost every man. In childhood they are laid on him; in manhood, just after he has been married, they are thrown after him, and for a considerable part of the rest of his life they are under him.

A Pleasant Frolic.

After the dissipated Duke of Wharton had been narrating his frolics De Witt said to him: "My lord, let me recommend one to you. Take a frolic to be good. Bely upon it, you will find it the pleasantest frolic you ever engaged in."

The usual fortune of complaint is to excite contempt more than pity.—Johnson.

For Clerk of Court.

To the Voters of Bulloch County: Thanking you very kindly for the generous support you gave me in my race two years ago, I again tender to you my name as a candidate for the office of clerk of the court, subject to the action of the democratic primary ensuing, and respectfully solicit your support.

To the Voters of Bulloch County.

Thanking my friends who voted for me in my race last year, I again offer my name as a candidate for Clerk of the Court subject to the action of the Democratic primary of 1908, and solicit the support of all my friends. Assuring you of my appreciation, and my determination to give you the best that is in me, I am, Yours truly, J. W. ROUNTREE.

Notice to Debtors.

On account of recent legislation the firm of Williams & Grice, Savannah, is forced to discontinue their present line of business January 1st, 1909. Our partners in Bulloch county will take notice that all amounts due to and from the firm are now due and payable to the undersigned. We have employed Mr. M. M. Donaldson, of Statesboro, to look after collections for us in Bulloch county, beginning October 1st. He will see you about your account at once and will expect a prompt settlement, either by cash or short-term note. Please spare him the trouble of a second call.

Very truly, WILLIAMS & GRICE.

SCRAMBLE FOR CASH.

Northern Banks Resort to Strategy to Get It.

The action of the banks all over the country in refusing to give out cash in payment of checks, but giving local certificates instead, is adding largely to the money panic. With a knowledge that one's money cannot be withdrawn from the banks at will, it is natural for the man of small means to carry his cash on his person or store it away in reach rather than deposit it in the banks. Thus the banks are largely contributors to the conditions which the issuance of bank certificates was intended to relieve.

The banks of Statesboro are to be complimented that they have not adopted the certificate plan, but are continuing to pay out cash to depositors on demand. Their action has prevented any flurry in local financial circles, and is much appreciated by the public.

As an instance of the strategy to which the northern banks have been forced to resort to secure cash, the TIMES reporter was shown Monday at the express office checks aggregating more than $1,300 drawn by a local firm in favor of northern business houses and returned here by express for collection. Usually these checks would have been returned by mail through corresponding banks, but in order to obtain the actual currency the northern house had returned them here by express for collection, expecting to have the currency returned by express. The cashier refused, however, to part with the cash, but gave New York exchange instead.

Primitive Baptists Form Church.

SWANSBORO, Ga., Nov. 13.—The Primitive Baptists of this city have organized a church at this place to be known as the Swansboro Primitive Baptist church. The presbytery which constituted the church consisted of Elders M. F. Stubbs, of Statesboro; W. A. Lamb, of Kite, and W. J. Brown, of Garfield, with Elder Stubbs as moderator. There were seventeen elders received. The church immediately went into conference and called Elder Lamb as pastor, with services every second Sunday. Messrs. D. A. Adkins, James Coursey and Ervin Kersey were elected as trustees, with Mr. James Coursey as clerk. Elder Stubbs then gave the charge to the church. There were also present at this meeting Elders B. W. Poole, of Register and W. B. Screws, of Aline.

Warning.

Hunting, fishing or otherwise trespassing upon the lands of the undersigned is forbidden under penalty of law.

OUR FALL SHIPMENTS

... AND CAN MAKE YOU ...

Very Attractive Prices.

It's cheaper than rails and safer than a bank, because it improves your farm. We are anxious to serve you.

Raines Hardware Company

Statesboro, Ga.

JUST GETTING IN ...

OUR FALL SHIPMENTS

... AND CAN MAKE YOU ...

Very Attractive Prices.

It's cheaper than rails and safer than a bank, because it improves your farm. We are anxious to serve you.

Raines Hardware Company

Statesboro, Ga.

JUST GETTING IN ...

OUR FALL SHIPMENTS

... AND CAN MAKE YOU ...

Very Attractive Prices.

It's cheaper than rails and safer than a bank, because it improves your farm. We are anxious to serve you.

Raines Hardware Company

Statesboro, Ga.

JUST GETTING IN ...

OUR FALL SHIPMENTS

... AND CAN MAKE YOU ...

Very Attractive Prices.

It's cheaper than rails and safer than a bank, because it improves your farm. We are anxious to serve you.

Raines Hardware Company

Statesboro, Ga.

JUST GETTING IN ...

OUR FALL SHIPMENTS

... AND CAN MAKE YOU ...

Very Attractive Prices.

It's cheaper than rails and safer than a bank, because it improves your farm. We are anxious to serve you.

Raines Hardware Company

Statesboro, Ga.

THE BIG SHOW COMING

Frank E. Griswold's Mammoth Railroad Pavilion

Ten Nights in a Bar-room Co.

Under a Big Water-Proof Tent, Fitted Up in Grand Opera House Style.

Will Exhibit at Statesboro Saturday, November 23, 8 p. m.

This Company carries 30 people. A car load of all special Scenery, with Calcium and colored fire effects. One of the best Bands—a Superb Orchestra of ten pieces, and a Mega-phone Quartette. The only Company traveling that makes a Specialty of this Grand Old Temperance Play, and has no connection with any other attractions. Nothing Cheap but the Prices.

Admission 20 and 30 cents.

Prof. Holley Rossmeyer's Military Band will give two popular concerts, at noon and 7 p. m.

Don't fail to hear "LITTLE MARGUERITE," the child actress as "MARY MORGAN." She has no equal.

REMEMBER THE DATE

Statesboro, November 23rd, 8 p. m.

See this Wire Fence Cut

Well, the fence itself is just like it—nothing better to be had at any price—small cracks, absolutely pig tight. Hot weather is the very best time to put up wire, and if you put it up tight now, you will always have a well made fence, winter or summer.

OUR FALL SHIPMENTS

... AND CAN MAKE YOU ...

Very Attractive Prices.

It's cheaper than rails and safer than a bank, because it improves your farm. We are anxious to serve you.

Raines Hardware Company

Statesboro, Ga.

JUST GETTING IN ...

OUR FALL SHIPMENTS

... AND CAN MAKE YOU ...

Very Attractive Prices.

It's cheaper than rails and safer than a bank, because it improves your farm. We are anxious to serve you.

Raines Hardware Company

Statesboro, Ga.

JUST GETTING IN ...

OUR FALL SHIPMENTS

... AND CAN MAKE YOU ...

Very Attractive Prices.

It's cheaper than rails and safer than a bank, because it improves your farm. We are anxious to serve you.

Raines Hardware Company

Statesboro, Ga.

BULLOCH TIMES.

ESTABLISHED 1892.—NEW SERIES VOL. 3, No 37.

STATESBORO, GEORGIA, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 27, 1907.

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR

SCREVEN IS TO SAY

Which of Her Sons Shall Run for Congress.

OVERSTREET REACH AGREEMENT.

Will Have Primary Within Ten Days to Decide Their Congressional Differences.

SYLVANIA, Ga., Nov. 21.—On account of the growing warmth of the campaign between E. K. Overstreet and his cousin, J. W. Overstreet, in their race for congress, an agreement was reached between the two today whereby they will submit their respective claims to the people of Screven county in a primary to be held within the next ten days, the one that is beaten in this primary to retire from the race in the district.

This proposition was made by J. W. Overstreet to E. K. Overstreet this morning, and was at once accepted, as "Kinch" had made this same proposition at the beginning of the campaign.

By the terms of the agreement the cousins are both to get out of the county at once, and remain away until the primary is held, so that there will be no more speeches and no more canvassing by the candidates themselves, although their friends are not debarred, and will probably put in some active work.

This amicable adjustment is a source of much satisfaction to the friends of the candidates, as the campaign between the two was beginning to grow heated and promised to become more so. E. K. Overstreet was booked for a speech at the court house at noon today, but on account of the agreement it was called off.

SYLVANIA, Ga., Nov. 22.—The details of the primary to be held in this county to decide the claims of E. K. Overstreet and J. W. Overstreet in their race for congress were arranged this morning by representative friends of the candidates.

By the terms of the agreement the primary is to be held at the various precincts of the county on Friday, Dec. 6. The registration list used in the last gubernatorial election is to control and the list to be kept open for further registration till five days before the primary. The candidates agree to leave the county Monday, the 25th, and remain away in voluntary exile until after the result of the primary is declared by the democratic executive committee of the county.

This does not debar them from writing letters and sending out what ever literature they may desire. The expense of the primary will be shared equally by the candidates. It is expected that the interests of Mr. E. K. Overstreet will be looked after during the short campaign by Messrs. A. L. Potter and A. M. Chappin. Mr. Potter is clerk of the city court. Mr. Chapman is an attorney. The interests of Mr. J. W. Overstreet will be cared for by Messrs. J. C. Overstreet, his father, Mr. L. H. Hilton, a merchant, and Mr. J. B. Morel.

Nominates Hoke Smith.

ATLANTA, Nov. 22.—W. A. Winship, an Atlanta attorney who had been conducting, as chief counsel for the Pacific Coast Lumber Association, an important litigation at Seattle, Wash., in which the petitioner is fighting in the United States courts the increase in freight rates on lumber, has been recently making a trip along the Pacific coast, and at Los Angeles gave out an interview, in which he suggested to the democrats of the far west Hoke Smith as the logical candidate for the presidency of the democratic ticket in the fight of 1908.

Goen Georgia One Better.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 21.—The senate today passed the Carmichael bill to prohibit the sale, giving away or possessing of liquors in any way in clubs. It prohibits exactly what the Georgia law allows.

The bill will become effective January 1, 1909, in those counties where the sale of liquor is to be kept up to that time, in all others on January 1 next. The general prohibition bill was signed by the speaker and the president of the senate today.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Important Matters May Make One Necessary.

ATLANTA, Nov. 25.—It is believed here that an extra session of the legislature is pretty sure to be called by Gov. Smith, though a later determination may be reached that it is not necessary.

Monday morning Attorney General Hart received the full text of the "back tax" decision of the United States supreme court, and was in consultation with Gov. Smith, Controller Wright and others during the morning.

An enabling act giving full process of law, to be passed before the revenues of the state were placed in jeopardy, would be the primal object of an extra session, in the event Gov. Smith and Judge Hart conclude that the error in this particular case can not be corrected in the courts.

An extra session would give the governor an opportunity to secure other important legislation, probably an anti-lobbying bill, and changes in the primary system of the state.

His call would probably extend to such matters, thus making it possible for him to secure in the first six months of his administration all the reforms he has advocated.

ATLANTA, Nov. 20.—An extra session of the Georgia legislature in January to provide for adequate machinery for the collection of back taxes from the Central of Georgia railroad and the Georgia railroad and Banking Company is not only possible, but probable, as a result of the decision handed down Monday by the United States supreme court.

The decisions themselves will determine the course of Gov. Smith, and if the full text supports the deductions that have been gathered from a synopsis already familiar to the chief executive the general assembly must assuredly will be called to convene in extra ordinary session next January.

In the event of the seemingly assured extra session, the tax legislation will not alone be considered. It may be stated that Gov. Smith in the call, would most likely urge a consideration of the legislation to perfect the election and primary laws of the state, and it is further possible he would suggest legislation for the relief of the state agricultural college and the eleven district agricultural schools, which were neglected by the legislature at the regular session.

The governor is anxious for the law to require the majority vote to nominate in primaries, and where more than two candidates offer for nomination and no one receives a clear majority of the whole vote cast he favors a second primary, at which the two receiving the highest number of votes may run.

The legislature in the ordinary course of events could remedy the tax question at the regular session, but it does not meet until June, thirty days after the time for making the tax returns has expired. In other words, the legal machinery cannot be provided in time to meet the emergency unless the extra session is called.

Will Follow Enforcement of Prohibition Law.

A Fine Legal Point Will be Raised and a Shower of Suits Will Follow.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 25.—A number of individuals and firms in the larger cities of Georgia have raised a fine legal point, and with the inauguration of the prohibition law the first of the year it is expected that a veritable shower of civil suits will follow. The point has been raised by those who now hold long leases on property used for liquor purposes. The suits, it is said, will involve the property owners to exact from the lessees—those whose contracts do not include a prohibition clause—the same amount of rental after the liquor business is outlawed as is paid at the present time. It is a well known fact that property rented for saloon purposes invariably brings a higher rental than when it is devoted to other lines of business.

COTTON CROP SHORT.

Gin Report Shows Million Bales Less.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The census report shows 7,311,202 bales of cotton ginned from 1907 crop to November 14. This is against 8,362,242 for 1906 and 7,501,180 for 1905. Round bales counted as half a bale. Number of round bales included is 142,609 for 1907, and 200,866 for 1906 and 209,006 for 1905. Sea island included 42,708 for 1907 and 30,671 for 1906, and 64,103 for 1905. Number of active ginneries was 26,571 for 1907.

Following is a report of some of the states, giving the running bales (counting round bales as half and excluding linters) and number of active ginneries as follows:

Alabama, 761,138 bales and 3,370 ginneries.

Georgia, 1,375,111 bales and 4,439 ginneries.